

LEGAL STUDIES MINOR

Minimum courses required: 5

Although it is possible to take only courses in philosophy and political science, courses from related fields, including sociology and psychology, may be included or substituted with the approval of either Professor Jay Goodman, Political Science, or Professor Stephen Mathis, Philosophy.

Course requirements	Semester taken
----------------------------	-----------------------

TWO of the following courses:

- PHIL 255: Feminism, Philosophy, and Law
- PHIL 260: How Judges Reason
- PHIL 265: Philosophy of Law
- PHIL 321: Contemporary Social and Political Philosophy

- | | | |
|----|--|--|
| 1. | | |
| 2. | | |

TWO of the following courses:

- POLS 291: Judicial Politics
- POLS 309: International Law and Organization
- POLS 341: Constitutional Law I: The Supreme Court and the Constitution
- POLS 351: Constitutional Law II: Civil Rights and Civil Liberties
- POLS 022: Legal Issues in Public Policy: Family Law
- POLS 023: Legal Issues in Public Policy: Criminal Law
- POLS 024: Legal Issues in Public Policy: Torts
- POLS 025: Legal Issues in Public Policy: The Law of Sexuality and Gender

- | | | |
|----|--|--|
| 3. | | |
| 4. | | |

ONE other legal studies course selected from above or from another department, with the approval of either Professor Goodman or Professor Mathis:

- | | | |
|----|--|--|
| 5. | | |
|----|--|--|